

Name of journal: World Journal of Gastroenterology

ESPS Manuscript NO: 14235

Columns: Case Report

Partial Splenectomy Using a Laparoscopic Bipolar Radiofrequency Device: A Case Report

Wei-Dong Wang, Jie Lin, Zhi-Qiang Wu, Qing-Bo Liu, Jing Ma, Xiao-Wu Chen

Abstract

We report a 51-year-old female patient with a solitary lymphangioma located in the upper splenic pole that was managed successfully with laparoscopic partial splenectomy. Surgery lasted 170 min and did not require blood transfusions. The patient recovered well post-operatively and was

Match Overview

1	CrossCheck 33 words Breitenstein, S.. "Laparoscopic Partial Splenectomy", Journal of the American College of Surgeons, 200701	1%
2	Internet 23 words crawled on 30-Sep-2012 www.cancerimaging.org	1%
3	Internet 16 words crawled on 06-Nov-2012 www.reallygoodstuff.com	1%
4	CrossCheck 15 words Tae Ho Hong. "Single-port Laparoscopic Partial Splenectomy: A Case Report", Surgical Laparoscopy Endoscopy & P	1%