To whom it may concern:

The manuscript (NO: 38869) titled “The production of extracellular lysophosphatidic acid in the regulation of metabolism and liver fibrosis” was re-read carefully by me, Betsy Anderson Steeves PhD, an assistant professor in the Department of Nutrition at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville.

Dr. Anderson Steeves was born and educated in the United States. She obtained her BS of Food and Nutrition, Dietetics from University of Dayton; MS of Public Health Nutrition at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville, and PhD of Public Health Nutrition from Johns Hopkins Bloomberg School of Public Health. As a native English speaker, she has published 28 original research papers, reviews and book chapters in English.

Please let me know if you have any concern.

Sincerely yours,

Elizabeth (Betsy) Anderson Steeves, PhD, RD
