SPECIFIC COMMENTS TO AUTHORS

The subject of this text is very interesting because impact of nervous system to carcinogenesis and cancer development is not yet well explored and is continuously under research. Thus, this topic is worthy of publication and presented article may be an excellent editorial for an issue dedicated to relations between nervous system activity and cancer. This article is clear and cogent is well designed and written and brings useful information. Therefore I recommend this paper for publication in World Journal of Clinical Oncology as an editorial of issue dedicated to the regulatory role of nervous system in cancer initiation and promotion.
