9 Abstract

10 Human enterovirus 71 (HEV71) is the cause of hand, foot and mouth disease and 11 associated neurological complications in children under five years of age. There has 12 been an increase in HEV71 epidemic activity throughout the Asia-Pacific region in 13 the past decade, and it is predicted to replace poliovirus as the extant neurotropic
 14 enterovirus of highest global public health significance. To date there is no effective 15 antiviral treatment and no vaccine is available to prevent HEV71 infection. The
