

Thursday, July 31, 2014

Dears Editors

Title: Effectiveness of probiotics in all subtypes of irritable bowel syndrome: An updated systematic review with meta-analysis

Name of Journal: World Journal of Gastroenterology

ESPS Manuscript Number: 11781

Invitation ID: 00040588

This is to confirm that thorough English language editing has been made by the Corresponding author who is an English Language educated academic and Chief Editor of two English language journals from Elsevier (UK) and BioMed Central (UK). The journals links are as follows:

<http://www.darujps.com/>

<http://www.journals.elsevier.com/journal-of-medical-hypotheses-and-ideas/>

<http://mrw.elsevier.com/txe3new/editors.html>

Either as an author of more than 550 English language papers or as the Editor-in-Chief of two highly prestigious English language medical journals, or as the Editor of major reference textbooks from Elsevier (USA), I would like to highly guarantee that there is no linguistic problem within the paper and it can be proceeded to publishing.

Thank you for your trust

Professor and Dean, Department of Toxicology and Pharmacology, TUMS I Fellow of IAS I SAB, OPCW, The Netherlands I EiC, J Med Hypotheses Ideas, Elsevier I EiC, DARU, BMC I Council Trustee Member, COPE, The UK I Mohammad.Abdollahi@UToronto.Ca I Mohammad@TUMS.Ac.Ir

A handwritten signature in blue ink, appearing to read 'M. Abdollahi'.