The study was approved by the ethical committee of the Zibo 148 Hospital, Peking where the informed consent was not required as the research was conducted on anonymized data for which consent from the volunteers have already been obtained.