

English language certificate

As this manuscript is an invited review and no funding is available, we are not able to use a commercial language editing service. As specified in the point to point response, we have edited language extensively with the help of a new coauthor (A J Jensen) who is very experienced in scientific language writing and editing (she holds two master grades from British universities). Together we have done extensive language editing of the whole manuscript and we now feel that it clearly meets the language requirements of the journal.

Falk Roeder and Alexandra D Jensen