

This study utilized anonymized, retrospective data from the medical record; thus, no informed consent was required per institutional review board (IRB) guidelines.